THE WORLD OVER

CANADA GETS MARKET IN U.S.

DEBORNE CHOSEN DEPUTY GOV.

STREAMLINED TRAIN TEST RUN

HON. H. H. STEVENS RESIGNS

WINNIPEG—It is conservatively estimated in grain trade circles here that Canada will dispose of about 25,000,000 bushels of wheat of all kinds in the United States this crop year. The importance of this is that it is a new market for grain that would otherwise remain in Canada.

Continuance of healthy export trade in Canadian grains to the United States is shown in the September figures obtainable from the United States bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. These showed that a total of 2,754,562 bushels of Canadian wheat valued at $2,429,994 entered during the month and paid a duty of 42 cents a bushel. This was for human consumption.

OTTAWA—J.A.C. Osborne, secretary of the Bank of Montreal, has been appointed deputy governor of the Bank of Canada. Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes announced last week. The appointment will take effect as at December 1 and will be for five years. It has been arranged, however, that Mr. Osborne may return to England before the expiry of his term of deputy governor "if he can conveniently be released."

NEW YORK—The record-breaking streamlined train of the Great Northern, the M10601, rolled into Grand Central station at 9:58 a.m. E.S.T., on Thursday last, completing the cross-country run from Los Angeles to New York City in 54 hours and 56 minutes.

The running time for the coast to coast trip set a new record by 14 hours and 31 minutes over the previous record set in 1906 when the late "Hartman" travelled from San Francisco to New York City in 71 hours and 27 minutes.

Creating Canada's biggest political sensation since the cabinet crisis of 1926, Mr. Stevens resigned as minister of Trade and Commerce and chairman of the Royal Commission on price spreads and mass buying. Prime Minister, R. B. Bennett has accepted the resignation and a new minister will be appointed, according to news reports. Mr. Stevens' letter to the Prime Minister announcing his resignation definitely stated that since his views

BOX SOCIAL AT WEBB

A box social and dance was held at the Webb School on Friday, October 26th when a large crowd gathered together for a very enjoyable evening. The net proceeds of the evening amounted to over $30, which sum will be towards the purchase of a piano for the Webb school.

The committee in charge wishes to thank all persons who helped to make the dance such a success.

A HUGE ADVERTISING BUDGET

Seas, Rebeck, the big United States chain store and mail order corporation, spent $7,000,000 on advertising last year. This is the largest appropriation for that purpose in the corporation's history.

This vast sum of money was spent with 500 newspapers in the 48 states where the company's 401 retail stores operate. It was an increase of 14 per cent over the amount spent for advertising in 1932.

The corporation claims that it finds the judicious use of newspaper advertising to fit their requirements adequately.—BX.

ROYALTY ON NAPHTHA DOUBLED

The regular meeting of the Carbon Literary and Social Club will be held in the I.O.O.F. club rooms on Friday, November 2nd, at 8:30 p.m. Entertainment, Social evening, lunch, etc. Everybody welcome.

EDMONTON—Pursuant to the agreement drafted when the province took control of its natural resources on October 1, 1930, the royalty on naphtha will be increased from 5 to 10 per cent on Jan. 1, according to Hon. Hugh W. Allen, Minister of Lands and Mines.

Asked to explain the circumstances surrounding the change, the minister said: "At the time the natural resources were transferred to the province the Dominion regulations provided that the royalty on naphtha production should be 5 per cent and that this should be increased to 10 per cent on January 1, 1935. Those regulations were adopted by the government, but the royalty collected is only from the lands leased by the government. However, on alienated lands which are leased by the producers from private individuals or corporations the royalty tax collected in many instances exceeds 10 per cent at the present time.

on the matter of price spreads and mass buying as concerning activity in the oil industry, were not in concert with those of the prime minister and his government, he felt it his duty to tender his resignation.

Alberta Coal Operators Want $5 Per Ton Rate

Asitation for a statutory rate of $5 per ton on coal moving from Alberta to Ontario is being pressed through the medium of the office of the Alberta Trade Commissioner, the various coal associations and other bodies, according to information from C.G. Durham, secretary of the Drumheller Coal Operators Ltd., when interviewed about a recent editorial which appeared in Liberty of October 20, in which attention was drawn to the coming operation of Canada importing coal when the coal resources of the Dominion have yet hardly been scratched.

"The editorial is timely and while publicity has not been given to the issue, there is a move under way to interest the members of the Dominion Government in fixing a statutory rate of $5 per ton on coal shipped to Ontario."

Asked if the 50 cents spread would capture the market, Mr. Durham stated the issue is not so much the fifty cents but rather that dealers in the east are loath to break their contracts with American coal producers so long as the coal subsidy is on a yearly basis. A change in government of a change in the policy of the present government can bring subsidizing coal to an end without warning. It is part of that general movement to stabilize the industry. Consumers in Alberta will use Alberta coal if assured of steady supply. Dealers will stock it if assured of a permanent statutory freight rate which will make for competitive selling."

That Ontario has a potential market for Alberta coal is shown by figures covering shipments from this Province over the past two years. In 1932 there were 16,800 tons shipped and the subvention rate while in 1933 this figure jumped to 32,201 tons. Tonnage for the first eight months of 1934 indicates that by the end of the year the 1933 tonnage will be doubled. Sixty per cent of the coal thus shipped is from the Drumheller valley.

Active campaigning is now under way to interest public authorities in buying Alberta coal for relief purposes. Many Ontario municipalities have placed orders but again the major obstacle is found in the eastern dealer who is afraid to encourage the Alberta product and thus jeopardize his relationship with the American mines.

Eastern consumers who demand Alberta coal are invariably met with the argument that there is no assurance that prices will remain low and that to the temporary nature of the Dominion subsidy of $2.50 per ton.

In a full page editorial on October 20, the Canadian edition of "Liberty" a McMillan publication with head offices in Chicago, said:

"Fourteen per cent of the world's supply of coal is located in Alberta alone. The great black seams spread over many square miles, as if the land were fairly bursting with its stupendous riches....Every train of Alberta coal shipped to Ontario brings would require thirty-two additional train cars for the round trip....It has been held that excessive transportation charges automatically remove Canadian coal from being a practical market commodity....but records of coal imports for the first seven months of 1934 offer a most contradictory angle. Canada's imports from Great Britain over 40 per cent of her anthracite requirements—a freight haul clear across the Atlantic, considerably farther than from Sydney, New South Wales, to Ontario points of destination."

LIBERALS TO ORGANIZE

Joint primaries of the Carbon, Mr. Donald, Heath, Gamble and Orkner Polls in the Federal constituency of Bow River will be held in Carbon on or about November 17th, for the purpose of electing delegates to the nominating convention to be held in Calgary on November 18th. Arrangements are being made for speakers for the occasion and posters will be distributed later announcing dates and speakers within the next few days.

All Liberals in these polling districts are requested to attend these primaries and see that representative delegates are sent to the nominating convention in Calgary.

ALBERTA DOUGLAS SOCIAL CREDIT PARTY WILL NOT TAKE POLITICAL ACTION

Edmonton newspapers report a recent meeting of the executive of the Alberta Douglas Social Credit Association held in the Corona Hotel in that city when President J.H. Ross, of Calgary, Herbert C. Boyd of Edmonton, Norman James of Mirror, Sidney H. Cuffe of Eden, W. Diamond of Edmonton, were in attendance.

An interesting result of this meeting was the resolution having to do with political action. Upon motion of Mr. Boyd the following resolution was adopted:

Having regard to the comments on the Australian elections by the leading Social Credit papers of the world on the wisdom of independent political action, this executive is of the opinion that it is wise not to make an attempt to form a Social Credit party, but to operate within the existing political parties, according to the attitude adopted towards Social Credit by the candidates of whatever political color."

Commenting on the results of the Australian general election, in which supporters of the Social Credit movement placed their own candidates in the field in opposition to all other political organizations, "The New English Weekly," an organ of the Social Credit movement in Great Britain, stated in part in its "Credit Forum":

"In the case of the Social Credit Movement in Australia and elsewhere, it will be a pity if the zeal already accumulated for influencing public and parliament is allowed to be canalized into the attempt to create a new party."

"We can be sure that if the Movement has not the strength to control the present popular representatives of national policy, it has not the strength to take their place and supersede them."

"All in fact, that it can be done for the benefit of a parliamentary party of its own to the satisfaction of its members, the autonomy of those parties, the confusion of the vote, the distinction of its friends, and the postponement forever of Social Credit in actual legislation."

9. TIPS FOR BEGINNERS

SKEET requires no previous experience with a shotgun. It is not easy, but neither is it difficult or other worthwhile sport, and therein lies the beauty of it. Every successful Skeet club will of course have a committee to look after points of organization, grounds, finance, etc., and it should choose two of three really experienced shots who will form an instruction committee to look after the beginner and the novice. If you have never had a gun in your hands, these shooters will be glad to put you up to the fundamentals of the game and give you a little personal coaching plus willingness to learn and to observe and confidence, is all the newcomer needs. And, of course, practice. If you have fired a few shots before, there are in all probability some kinks to be taken out of your stance and arm-work.

Be sure that the gun you use fits you. Don't rush to buy one right at the start. Ask the Secretary of the Skeet club to let you try one or two from the gun rack before you decide which one you will purchase. Guns fit, as well as clothes. Obviously, the one suitable for a skeet, two hundred pound man will not be the right one for a teenage girl. You will soon find the correct gun for your particular size and characteristics.

Leave your nerves and self-consciousness behind you when you walk out to Station 1. Take things easy. Stand naturally, don't grip too hard. Don't shoot too much—just a few shots at first. It is of more value to keep your eye on some of the older timers, and then replace it with another timer.

After you have got the gun that fits, practice with it as much as possible, unaided, of course, swinging your arms and legs as you swing. An excellent idea is to practice stance alone in a mirror, if you can remember those experts looked that you were waving earlier in the day. Do not fire the gun when it is empty; you will damage the firing pin. Load it with an empty shell, use it fifteen times or so, and then replace it with another timer.

You will be surprised how quickly you catch on and move all, be patient and try to make steady progress, rather than score that are sometimes spectacular and mainly erratic.

This is No. 9 of a series of 12 articles on Skeet Shooting. Cut it out. When all have been clipped, you will have a complete write-up of this sportsman's sport which is rapidly becoming the vogue across Canada.

SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen help to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur has been systematically looting the ranch, and Joe Carr, your partner, is drinking himself into ruin."

But Keene decided to go see what was happening for himself—not as Gerald Keene, half owner of the Broken-Glass Ranch, but as Duro Stone, tenderfoot in a Montgomery Ward westward outfit.

Dad Kane, desert rat and luckless prospector 115 now, is returning to tell Dustin and Spike Goddard, owners of the Broken Spur ranch, who had grubstaked him, of his discovery of a rich gold mine, and shows samples of the ore. He sees Broken Spur men rustling Hour-glass cattle and pretends to notice it.

Joe Carr's daughter, Edith, repulses Dustin when he wished to make her acquaintance, saying when he walked with a man, it would not be with a square man. He plans revenge, but has had no opportunity so far. Affairs on the ranch going from bad to worse, Joe Carr takes to drink.

(Now Go On With The Story)

Somewhere the Broken Spur always found a market. Broken Spur cattle were shipped periodically to California to be fattened to bring the highest prices in a falling market, while the Hour-glass could not pay its freight bills for such shipments. Poor old Joe Carr saw the Hour-glass go to pieces under his own able hands and he sought in vain for the reason. That suit over Soda Springs was the last straw.

"I know damn well they've been robbing us, dumb and blind," he said to his big Crewe, his foreman. "But I can't prove it. What can I do? There's nothing I can do, Frank."

"Huh. You might try leavin' the cork in that whiskey bottle for a change," said Crewe, who was not in the least bit perturbed. "Carried him and on that occasion left the cork in the bottle . . . for an hour."

It's easy to be your own plumber. The old rule again, by the by, is that of that young fellow Gerald Keene," went on Carr fretfully. "You know how old Peter Vinton left the Hour-glass. Half to me and half to him and if one of us dies, the other gets the half of the one who dies. Funny way of doing it, but it works."

"Listen here, Joe . . . Crewe wheeled on his employer. "I've known you for years. Nobody knows my address. I've been runnin' into the red ink along by the horse's tail, cash to finance the Hour-glass for the last few years. I've been told it's not my own responsibility. It ain't right that you should pay my share. . . ."

gram I want to pay. They're yellin' over some back interest that I haven't been able to pay. I borrowed eleven thousand from Pagan on my personal note and I haven't been able to pay him the interest. It's about eleven hundred odd . . ."

Crewe whistled. Eleven thousand at ten per cent. (and Texas allows a ten per cent. rate) meant that old Joe had borrowed about all he could on his share of the ranch at prevailing rates in the money market. No wonder Joe was worried. No wonder he drank a little. Crewe suddenly made up his mind that never again would be criticize a man till he knew all of both sides of the question.

"That's bad," he said evenly. "But I mean how much is the total you owe?"

Joe Carr flung up a pair of tired hands that looked suddenly odd and frail.

"A damned sight more'n I've got or can raise," he said. "But if that damned Broken Spur'd keep their thevin' hands off me I could get some clear I think."

"Well, they won't," said Crewe. "This suit over Soda Springs shows they mean to drive you to the wall. That suit'll cost you ten thousand in court fees. If they lose they can't pay . . . or won't. I'll all come back on us . . . You . . . Why not talk with Dustin over the matter?"

"Over an ivory front sight," snarled Carr. "That's the only way I'll talk to him. See if you can't find out where he can get in touch with Gerald Keene. He owns half the ranch. He might help."

But all attempts to find Gerald Keene had failed and at times old Joe doubted whether such a person really existed.

"I don't know what to make of it," growled Crewe, tramping the floor. "The man has just dropped out of sight. Nobody knows where he is or even where he used to live."

"And to-day I was notified that old Pagan wants some definite action taken on my note," said Carr. "That means pay. How in hell can I?"

Crewe whistled again.

"It looks like they've got you by the short hairs," he growled. "If they crowd you, what'll you do?"

"God! I don't know! I've demanded Carr miserably. He remembered old days when a mere verbal assurance that he would pay would have satisfied the bank but Pagan knew nothing of those days. "I'm too old to start all over again," he said wretchedly. "I can't do it."

Frank took that over the Edith to be thought of."

There had always been Edith and old Joe Carr had never ceased to think of her though his thoughts were not always sober ones. Crewe could not help reflecting sadly that a few hours of thought about Edith at the proper time would have prevented much of the present trouble.

But he only said:

"There seems to be the only of the" chance that we may find this man Gerald Keene. Still . . . Even then I ain't too sure he'd help much. You can hardly expect a man to shoulder half the debts you've incurred on your own sole responsibility. Men don't buy dead horses as a rule."

"Huh. His uncle Peter Vinton would have done it . . . Carr was desperate. "Peter and me was partners when it came to something to back a man's play. There ain't much hope, even if we find this man Gerald Keene, that he could or would help much but as far as I can see, Frank, it's our only chance. If we can find him, he might be willing to help us out for the full ownership of the Hour-glass. What do you think?"

"Looks to me like you're about right," said Crewe. "Our best hope is to find Gerald Keene."

CHAPTER IV.

"I'm still a-waitin' to hear you tell me how you plan to bring that red-headed girl of Joe Carr's to heel," Spike Goddard poured himself a generous drink and eyed Dustin suspiciously across his glass. "You continued to stare at him. Words finally came.

"There's a lot more than any girl in this town. You poor fool! Can't you see as far as the end of your nose? Don't you see the mess we're in? Dad Kane knows enough of what Carr and Gray were doing in up the hills to put you and me both behind the bars for ten years. . . ."

It dissolves clogging grease—never harms the plumbing

WHY be annoyed by stopped-up drains? It's so easy to keep them clear and free-running. Simply sprinkle Gillett's Pure Flake Eye down each week. Use it full strength—it will not in any way harm the enamel or plumbing. It cuts right through all clogging matter . . . kills germs and destroys odors.

It's easy to be your own plumber. This workless way, and you've no unwelcome bills to pay afterwards! Get a tin of Gillett's Eye from your grocer today. It will save you hours of unnecessary scrubbing and rubbing all over the house.

Never shower in hot water. The action of the eye itself heats the water.

Now... new aid in PREVENTING Colds

Remarkable New Formula is Especially Designed for Nose and Upper Throat where most colds start

AFTER years of research on the problem of colds, Vicks Chemists have developed a remarkable new preparation—Vicks Vapo-Nol. This exclusive Vicks formula is especially designed to aid the functions which Nature has provided—in the nose—to prevent colds, or to throw them off in their early stages. Used at the very first feeling of nasal irritation—it's a very few drops of each nostril—Vapo-Nol helps to avoid many colds altogether.

Relieves Head Colds at Every Stage If irritation has reached the stuffy, sneezy stage—Nature's usual warning that a cold is developing—prompt use of Vapo-Nol helps to throw it off in the early stages. Where irritation has led to a clogged-up nose (a stuffy head cold or nasal catarrh) Vapo-Nol penetrates deep into the nasal passages—reduces swollen membranes—clears away clogging mucus—brings welcome relief.

Vapo-Nol is real medication—not mere "roll drops"—yet it is safe for children and adults. It has been clinically tested by physicians—approved by specialists.

Easy to use, anytime or place—at home or away. Keep a bottle always handy.

Introduces Vicks Cold-Control Plan This new aid in preventing colds is the ideal companion to Vicks VapoRub (modern external treatment for colds). Together with certain simple rules of health, these two preparations form the new Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. Records of thousands of clinical tests—made over a period of two years, and under medical supervision—indicate that Vicks Plan greatly reduced the number, duration and dangers of colds. (Full details of the Plan in each package of Vicks VapoRub and Vicks Vapo-Nol.)

THEY ALL DO IT

A hen is not supposed to have much common sense or tact.

Yet every time she lays an egg she carries forth the fact.

The watchdog bark, and gander-quack, and doves and pigeons coo. The peacock spreads his tail and squawks, pidge equal and robin sing. And even sermons know enough to him before they sting.

But man, the greatest masterpiece that Nature could devise, Will often stop and hesitate before he'll advertise.

All business houses need more or less printed matter, all of which is within the possibilities of the local printer. Yet how many are to pass up the home printer and let the orders go to city offices which have no interest whatever in rural communities except to get printing orders and the cash to pay for them. Business men, remember that the home paper is constantly promoting the interests of the home community and you owe it to yourself and your local paper to back up these efforts by at least having your printed matter done locally.

The Carbon Chronicle

Spanish Monument
Buenos Aires

A cruise that leaves the beaten track of world tour ships to explore the changing worlds of Africa and South America has been planned by the Canadian Pacific for the 21,000-ton liner Empress of Australia this winter.

In three months, 96 days to be exact, the great white liner will circle the dark continent of Africa via the Mediterranean and the Indian Ocean, cross the South Atlantic, calling at lonely Tristan da Cunha, to visit the South American continent and the West Indies. There are altogether 26 ports in 22 different countries on the schedule for this new Mediterranean-Africa-South America tour. Departure will be from New York on January 18 and return there on April 24.

Lisbon, Gibraltar, Barcelona, Monte Carlo, Nice, Naples, and Athens will be visited during the European part of the cruise, then Palestine and Egypt. In East Africa the Empress of Australia's cruise party will spend three days, visiting Mombasa in Kenya Colony, the island of Zanzibar, and Dar-es-Salaam, the capital of Tanganyika. En route to Loreo, Marques, Portuguese East Africa, a call will be made at Malindi Bay, on the French coast of Madagascar.

Two whole weeks are spent in South Africa, forming part of the experience of the cruise party, which will reach Durban on March 5. Calls at Durban and Cape Town are on the liner's schedule, but five optional excursions by special trains will be made through the interior.

The Western Hemisphere will be reached again on March 28, when the Empress docks at Buenos Aires. Two days will be spent in this gay capital of the Argentine and a day at Montevideo, capital of Uruguay. The coffee port of Santos, Sao Paulo, and beautiful Rio de Janeiro will be the Brazilian place of interest visited, then the final ten days of the cruise will be spent in the Caribbean waters, calling at La Brea and Trinidad, Port of Spain, Kingston, Jamaica, and Havana, Cuba.
